

Omaraz

A Cluster Approach

The Omaraz translators continue to work with a number of other language teams as part of a cluster, although each language is a separate project. Some of the teams are working on other parts of the New Testament. Others are translating Old Testament books as well. When they meet as a whole group in workshops, the teams receive help from consultants.

A recent workshop on the book of Romans involved some of the other teams. Here is a picture from that workshop. Although the Omaraz translators didn't participate, this may give you an idea of the larger setting in which the Omaraz team will function when they're involved in workshops.

Computer Training

Several helpful translation software packages are available to the Omaraz translators. They're planning to take advantage of training soon to be able to access these tools. This kind of training is one way The Seed Company helps translators produce the highest quality translation possible. Your investments help make these resources available to the Omaraz team.

The Omaraz translators are grateful to God for you as partners who provide these tools for them.

- Pray that the Omaraz team will learn quickly and be able to apply their new skills to the tasks at hand.
- Please pray for the team as they seek a third person to train as a translator. They hope to have this person in place by August.

flashlight that's useless for really dark places. Many of us have the Light, but when the way is darkest, we forget we have it or don't turn it on. We stumble, too, as though we didn't have access to the Light.

- Praise God for the Light of God's Word. Pray for the translators as they prepare it to shine brightly for the Omaraz people.
- Pray that that Light might be your default: when difficult situations arise, decisions crop up or relationships are tense, don't forget to use it!
